

Matchbox Gift Box with Rubons

11 OCTOBER 2024

Create a charming matchbox-style gift box with a decorative wraparound sleeve, perfect for presenting small gifts or treats. This project features vintage-inspired papers in teal and cream tones, embellished with a 'Shine Bright' sentiment panel adorned with sunflowers and butterflies. The main techniques include die-cutting the box structure, layering coordinating papers, and applying decorative rub-on transfers for an elegant finish.

WHAT YOU WILL NEED

See the show for everything used.

Run your chosen cardstock through your die-cutting machine using the Funky Fossil Matchbox die set. The first pass creates the base of the matchbox with the die cutting the outline and fold lines into the card.

Fold along the score lines on the matchbox die-cut piece. Assemble the base by folding the panels to form the box structure, creating the outer sleeve of the matchbox.

STEP 6

Fill the matchbox with small gifts or treats. You can include items such as keychains, sweets, or other small embellishments that fit inside the box.

TIPS FROM THE SHOW

- You can use pattern papers as a second layer over card to create the boxes, but use card as the base for structural strength.
- A separate die is available to cut a window in the sleeve if you want to display the contents.
- These boxes work well for wedding favours, test-passing gifts, birthday presents, or seasonal treats.
