

Shaped Floral Card with Watercolour Background...

30 JULY 2026

Create a shaped card using nesting square dies with a watercolour-effect background in purples and pinks, topped with a fussy-cut floral stamp and a gold-embossed sentiment. The result is an elegant card with soft colour gradients and dimensional layering.

From our live show THE THURSDAY DROP - Latest Products from Toni - Broadcast 30th July 2026 (30 July 2026) - watch it from 33:15.

Glue two of the largest die-cut squares together to form your card blank, ensuring the score line is at the back for opening.

Stamp the floral image onto a piece of cream card stock using black ink.

Fussy cut around the floral stamp, leaving a small border and holding your scissors at a proud angle so the paper does the motion rather than your wrist.

Wet the surface of one of your medium-sized die-cut squares with water using a brush.

Watch this step: 51:00 into the show

Apply teal and pink ink to the wet surface, allowing the colours to blend and run together, then tap the card on an angle to create drips.

Watch this step: 55:00 into the show

Dry the watercoloured piece and flatten it using a die-cutting machine plate if it has warped.

Watch this step: 1:11:00 into the show

Glue the fussy-cut floral to the top of the card with a small amount of adhesive to allow some dimension, then position the gold sentiment on foam pads.

TIPS FROM THE SHOW

- When fussy cutting, hold your scissors proud and let the paper do the motion to avoid hand cramp.
- Use watercolour card stock rather than regular card stock if you plan to add water-based techniques to avoid pilling.
- Never be tight with foam pads; use enough to prevent your project from sinking.
